It was Christmas again, and all of Santa Claus’s elves had been collecting the letters from the children who greatly anticipated Santa’s arrival. It was a very busy, and exciting time for everyone who bustled around the magical workshop.
It was when Santa began to read the letters that had been sent this year, that he noticed something with great surprise...

“This Christmas,” Said Lucy. “I don’t want a doll, I want to make a doll! I want to be an artist!”

“For Christmas,” Wrote Liam. “I want a best friend!”

“Dear Santa,” Read Millan’s wish list. “For this Christmas, I want to learn how to fly!”

There were plenty of wonderful toys and treats in the workshop that had been made for the children this year, but nobody wanted that. What they wanted, were not things one could build in a workshop.
“What should we do?” Asked Blitzen when he heard the news. “This year,” Said Santa. “we will give the gift of skill, friendship, and magic.”
On Christmas night, Santa Claus loaded up the sleigh with not a big sack of toys - but all of his cheerful elves! The reindeer flew them all over the world, through the colorful Winter skies, and sparkling crystal snowflakes.
At each stop, Santa, the elves, and all of the reindeer brought joy and friendship to each child they met. They celebrated each boy and girl for who they were, and reminded them that they each had their own special power within.
Millan even learned how to fly!
Everybody was so happy to be together and have so much to share, that on Christmas morning, the children told the story of their amazing, fantastical experience they’d had in the night, playing and dancing with the elves, flying with the reindeer, and watching Santa Claus perform miracles!

It was a Christmas none of the children ever forgot - Even when Winter had turned into Spring...
But Winter came again as it always does, and with it, Christmas. Santa opened his first letter with a smile. "Dear Santa," Said Tommy.

"for this year, I would like to be Santa Claus!"
MERRY CHRISTMAS!!!
